Reading Comprehension (40 points)

Question Number One: (20 points)

Read the following passage carefully then complete the tasks below.

Your comfort zone is, as the name suggests, the area where you feel comfortable. We all have one, whether we know it or not: it's the set of routines and known abilities that make us feel safe because we're confident that we can manage and are unlikely to be challenged by anything unexpected or worrying. Obviously, staying inside your comfort zone has many benefits, especially at times when you're feeling under stress.

On the other hand, we're often told in 'self-help' books that it's a good idea to do things that are outside our comfort zones. In fact, many studies have shown that an important factor in helping people feel positive about themselves is the feeling that they are developing and making progress in their lives. You won't reach your full potential if you only do what you know you are able to do. We all want to improve ourselves, for example by learning something new, becoming more creative or getting fit.

Unfortunately, people often get stuck in their comfort zones and don't feel able to try different things. There are various possible reasons for this. They may be afraid of failing or unsure how to begin. Many people think 'This is the way I am and I'll never change', using this as an excuse for not trying something new. Whatever the reason may be, it's sometimes necessary to force yourself to do something you'd rather not do. Once you've made the effort, though, the door to new experiences will be open and you'll probably wonder why you thought it was a problem.

How important is to love your work? Some people say it's the key to happiness. You spend so much time at your job that it has to be something you're passionate about. Other people say you have to at least feel valued in your workplace. Your dream job may still be a hobby, but the work you do must make a difference to people's lives. Is it possible to adore your job no matter what you do? Your attitude towards your job can go a long way. A supportive pest control worker or plumber improves the quality of life of his customers. Feeling challenged on the job is important. A job that requires very little effort is hard to do for a long time. This is why some positions have a high turnover. Your night job, may be a stepping stone to your future career. The people we work with have a lot to do with job satisfaction. You may be passionate about the work, but hate your boss or co-worker. On the other hand, you may work from home, but miss interaction with colleagues. The money you earn on the job is also important. Do you earn enough money to meet your basic needs? Is there a little left over for your savings and reaction account? If you think you deserve more than you earn, you may be miserable at work. Asking for a raise may be your solution. Some people get stuck in a boring work. They don't leave a dead end job because they get too comfortable. Think back to when you were a small child.
